

MAY TEST NEW SUNDAY LAWS.

THOMAS CONDOS OPENED HIS PLACE SUNDAY.

Would Not Heed the Warning Given by Police on New Law.

WILL BE PUT UP TO PROSECUT- ING ATTORNEY.

Thomas Condos, a Greek who conducts a candy store at No. 599 Main street, opened his store yesterday afternoon in spite of the fact that he had also kept open on Saturday, and when ordered to close up by Officer Michael Gavin he refused. It is believed by the police that he will make a test case of it, to try the new laws relating to Sunday business. The matter will be submitted to Prosecuting Attorney Freeman this morning.

There has been considerable feeling among dealers in confectionery and soda in the center of the city against the Sunday closing laws, and much kicking to the police has been the result, but they could only enforce the laws, and keep the places closed. Business men would point to the well filled drug stores and say that the drug business was the smallest part of their Sunday's receipts, and call such a law an injustice.

The police have anticipated that sooner or later a test case would be made of the new law, for several small store keepers have been talking about such a movement since the law went into effect.
