

Carol A. Kretowicz Wed to John Hayes

Special to The New York Times

RUMSON, N. J., Jan. 7 — The Holy Cross Roman Catholic Church here was the setting today for the wedding of Miss Carol Ann Kretowicz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam A. Kretowicz, to John Vincent Hayes, son of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Hayes of New York. The Rev. E. Patrick Patterson performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Richard Mackin, rector of the Cranwell School, Lenox, Mass.

The bride wore an ivory satin gown with alençon lace and a full-length mantilla of the same lace. She carried roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Miss Susan Kretowicz, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Richard Mark Mumma, sister of the bridegroom, were maid and matron of honor. The other attendants were the Misses Mary Lou Kretowicz and Kathaleen Davis Kretowicz, also sisters of the bride; Amanda Hoffman and Susan Hearn, and Mrs. James Benedict Hayes, sister-in-law of the bridegroom. Kim Marie and Ann Maria Kretowicz, twin sisters of the bride, were flower girls.

James B. Hayes, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride attended Marymount Junior College, Arlington, Va., and Elizabeth Seton College, New York. Her husband, a graduate of Georgetown University and Fordham Law School, holds the rank of a first lieutenant in the Marine Corps Reserve. He is with the New York law firm of Donovan, Leisure, Newton & Irvine, of which his father is senior partner.

The New York Times

Published: January 8, 1967

Copyright © The New York Times