The floats are well under way, and are beginning to show the art of the masters of makebelieve who are engaged in their construction, a band of costumers are as busy as bees getting out the guady draperies that will go to add color and splendor to the nightly pageants; the various committees are hard at work closing out the details of their assignments and all report matters as being well in hand.

The carnival for this year is to be known as "The Carnival of Cap and Bells,"'a title that will permit Young America, both boy, miss, man and woman, to indulge in a week of harmless merriment, with all the noise and good natured fun that each is capable of. In fact, the became so defaced from use and abuse that most of them were illegible. The County officials decided to recopy but many maps could not be deciphered. Some maps were missing. We had in our Jamaica office copies of all these maps, clean and in good condition, copied by us at the time each map was filed.

We have placed them at the disposal of the County officials free of charge although they cost us thousands of dollars to copy, and soon the public records will be again in good shape.

Court Theatre, Brooklyn. All people have more or less sentiment in their hearts associated with the happy periods of their useful lives so that the musical comedy, "School Days," at the Court Theatre, starting with Monday matinee August 29, may be supposed to have a big measure of favor awaiting it. It is promised that the performance will ¹⁰ fully size up to expectations. This season it has not undergone any particular change of matter but continues the same bright, lively, tuneful, merry and thoroughly enjoyable performance. The plot is interesting, and serves to nom introduce the various recitations, choruses, dances and other features which form its novelty and charm, and make the entertainment so pleasing in result. Herman Timberg; whe made a pronounced impression last season; remains in the role of Izzy Levi, the little Russian violinist, whose good singing and grotesque dancing class him as a "find" of remarkable worth and power on the stage. He is supported by Miss Anna Wilks as Nonuie, and other principals include Dan Coleman, Wilfred Berrick, Daniel Murphy, ence Benedict. While the fun occupies a considerable o part of the performance the melodious airs that are introduced win much of the applause. Those ear-captivating tunes include "School Days," "Schoolmates." "You're Just the Boy for Me," "Sunbonnet Sue," "The Fighting Kid" and some original compositions by Timberg, such as "My Ju-Ju Babe" and "Little Snowflake."

Lilly Dean Hart, Edna Remting and Flor-

The story told in "School Days" is in nom three "lessons," which show a school yard, a school room and a private home at a lawn party. 'The setting of each is accurately placed and is in keeping with the action of the play. There is a plot which concerns itself with the coming of a Hebrew boy to America. On the way over his violin playing attracts the attennom tion of a wealthy woman, who promises to help him. Izzy loses the woman's address, and on the first day of school his violin is stolen. Nonnie, his girl sweetbeart, who acknowledges being a "tief," nom is accused of the crime. Izzy manages to save Nonny and she helps him lo lucate the instrument.
